

ANNOUNCING THE RELEASE OF

Bark! Bark! Bark for My Park!

by Jessica Dimuzio, VMD and Johnny Angel

How does a little black and white puppy become a conservation hero?

Johnny Angel, a five-pound Papillon puppy and his best friend, veterinarian Dr. Jessica Dimuzio, recount the struggle to save their beloved park in the newly published children's picture book, Bark! Bark! Bark for My Park! The story proves that no matter what size, age, (or even species) you are, you have the power to make a difference in your world.

"Charming, funny, and ultimately inspiring book (even a dog can fight city hall!)...Kids will identify with Johnny Angel, cheer his victory, and learn valuable lessons about conservation through the tale of this little hero," states Marvin Terban, teacher and award-winning author of 37-plus books for children.

Focusing on saving open space, this book is vibrantly illustrated with pictures by nature photographer Timothy Wood. Appropriate for early elementary school readers, the story will also resonate with dog lovers, conservationists, and kids of all ages.

Jessica Dimuzio, VMD, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine, specializing in wildlife preservation. After working to save wildlife in Africa and Asia, she discovered vital work needed to be done right here in her backyard. Johnny Angel, graduate of Obedience I and II, Agility I and a Good Citizenship Certificate holder, showed Jessica the power of a single voice to save natural habitats.

Winner of the Society of Children's Book Writers & Illustrators international Kimberly Colen Memorial Grant Award

ISBN: 978-0-9837839-0-9 $15.95

32 pages, color, hardcover, all ages

Available at: www.naturetalesandtrails.com